Children aged under 13 years must have a parent or guardian's consent before providing personal information to us. We do not wish to collect any personal information without this consent.

Cookies

Since 26 May 2011, the law requires that cookies on websites can only be used with your consent. This website uses cookies in the operation of the site in a number of areas.

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small file of data, often incorporating a unique identifier that is sent to your computer or mobile phone browser from a website's computer. This data file stores the information you provide us with and in doing so enables us to 'remember' you on repeat visit, effectively letting you move around the site without having to keep reintroducing yourself. Most browsers accept cookies automatically, but you can set your browser to prevent this. If your browser's preferences allow it, each website or third party service provider is able to send a cookie to your browser. However, to protect your privacy, your browser only allows these websites or third party service providers to access cookies already sent to you, not the cookies sent to you by other sites or other third party service providers.

How does Animal Fu use cookies?

This website does not use cookies to collect personally identifiable information about you as a user of the site. This website does use an independent measurement company. It gathers information regarding the visitors to this website on our behalf using cookies, log file data and code which is embedded on our website. This website uses this type of information to help improve the services it provides to its users. This website strictly requires that third parties do not use any of this type of information for their own business or other purposes.

Third party cookies?

This website does contain hyperlinks to websites owned and operated by third parties. These third party websites have their own privacy policies, including cookies, and we urge you to review them. They will govern the use of any personal information you submit or which is collected by cookies whilst visiting these websites.
